The Drug Pricing Clinic: Your Home for AAF's Drug Pricing Policy Research

ANDREW EVANS | OCTOBER 9, 2019

The Drug Pricing Clinic is your home for all of AAF's most relevant and up-to-date work on prescription drug policy, proposals, and programs. Policymakers from across the political spectrum are offering various reforms for lowering the costs of prescription drugs, but the market is tremendously complicated — and any policy intervention promises to have numerous effects across the various health care markets and for hundreds of millions of patients, both in the United States and around the world.

AAF's team of experts provide up-to-date analysis of the latest policy proposals and their effect on the U.S. health care system. You can find all of their most timely and incisive research and analysis, organized by policy area, at The Drug Pricing Clinic.
